WRITING YOUR FAMILY HISTORY

As easy or as challenging as you want to make it!

LECTURE MEETING WITH LORRAINE GOSSELIN (QFHS)

There are many ways of presenting your family history: it can be as simple as copying your family tree generated by a program, or as challenging as writing a book for submission to a publisher . . . or anything in between!

It's all about evaluating your own talents and knowing the audience you are addressing. This lecture will be a starting point for those contemplating what to do with the precious research material about their ancestors.

Lorraine Gosselin is a former information systems director. She returned to University upon her retirement and graduated from Concordia with a BA Honours in English and Creative Writing and a minor in Quebec history. She is an amateur genealogist and writes the Internet column for Connections, the Quebec Family History Society's journal. The seminars she has given include use of the Internet for writers, for genealogists, and workshops at the QFHS on Writing Your Family History.
