“A Tailor's Tale - From Transylvania to Tennessee”

Just over 100 years ago, apprentice tailor Samuel Friedman left his bucolic surroundings in rural Transylvania (then part of Hungary) and began making his way to America. How Sam weathered the voyage and ended up in Knoxville, Tennessee is chronicled in a memoir dictated to his daughter in 1954. Sam's cousin, Bob Friedman, will provide social-historical context and read excerpts from the manuscript, with slides of photos and documents to illustrate the journey.

Everyone is welcome!
